Destination weddings might seem glamorous: the exotic location, maybe an unknown language, excitement and activities, but they come with a lot of downsides too. Destination weddings often mean added expenses for guests, can be more difficult to plan from afar and can be more expensive for the bride and groom as well. Here are some of our favorite “staycation” wedding venues in Baltimore that, though close to home offer an escape and exciting flair to any wedding event.

PROVIDED

Situated in Monkton, just 35 minutes from the heart of Baltimore City, this old school estate could hardly be more removed from the hustle and bustle of the city. You and your guests will enter the property along a long tree-covered way and catch your first glimpse of the 127 acres of horse pasture and the Estate at Foxfire, built in 1932. The manor and guest house sleep up to 21 guests, while the venue itself can hold up to 300 guests. With a stunningly updated modern-chic farmhouse interior and plenty of opportunities to meet the horses, Foxfire offers the experience of a lifetime.
